For the Children.

Fairy Folk.

The story books have told you
Of the fairy folk so nice,
That make them leathern aprons
Of the ears of little mice;
And wear the leaves of roses
Like a cap upon their heads,
And sleep at night on thistle down
Instead of feather beds.

These stories, too, have told to you,
No doubt to your surprise,
That fairies ride in coaches,
That are drawn by butterflies,
And come into your chambers
When you are locked in dreams,
And right across your counterpanes,
Make bold to drive their teams,
And that they heap your pillows,
With their gifts of rings and pearls
But do not heed such idle tales,
My little boys and girls.

There are no fairy folk that ride
About the world at night.
Who give you rings and other things
To pay for doing right.
But if you'd do to others what
You'd have them do to you,
You'll be as blest as if the best,
Of story-books were true.

—ALICE CARY.

God Says We Must Not.

As a mother sat reading to her three children, she came to a story of a naughty boy who had stolen apples and pears from an orchard near his father's cottage. After reading part of the story, according to her usual practice, she made a pause to ask a few questions. "William," she said "why ought we not to do as this naughty boy did? Why ought we not to steal apples and pears?" "Oh!" replied William, "because they do not belong to us." "And what do you say, Robert?" "I say, because if they caught us, they would be sure to send us to prison." "And now, Mary, it is your turn to give a reason. Say, dear, why ought we not to steal apples and pears, or anything else?" "Because," said little Mary, looking meekly up at her mother, "because God says we mustn't."

"Right, love," said her mother; "that is the true reason and the best reason that can be given. What God forbids we are bound to leave undone. 'Thou shalt not steal, are his words. If ever you should be asked by any one you know why you should not do what is wrong, let your answer be the same as the one you have given me—'Because God says we mustn't.'"—Ex.

Put Things in Their Places.

Much of the time of busy people is spent in picking up and clearing up after persons who are careless, thoughtless, lazy and disorderly. They derange but never arrange. They meddle with other people's affairs misplace their tools throw things into disorder, upset and disarrange work that has cost others time and labor to arrange, and then away they go, leaving every thing in chaos. If all persons would learn to pick up their own litter, clear up after themselves, put things back where they find them, and let alone what belongs to others, if they would see to it that no action of theirs increases the labor of oppressed and over-burdened people, they would be much more useful than they now are, and would have the satisfaction of knowing that if they could not be helpers, they were not hinders in the world. But unfortunately those who are the least useful and have the most to pick up after others, are sometimes the very persons who make the most litter and confusion, and so hinder far more than they are likely to help, unless they mend their ways. Such ways are not easy to repair. Only those who have self-control enough to halt in the midst of the greatest hurry, and restore order, can hope to succeed. The whole universe is a wonderful example of this orderly arrangement. In creation, God put things in their places.—H. L. H.

A Contented Child.

During a time of famine in France, a rich man invited twenty of the poor children in town to his house, and said to them: "In this basket is a loaf for each one of you; take it, and come back every day at this hour till God sends us better times."

The children seized the basket, wrangled, and fought for the bread. Each wished to get the largest loaf, and at last went away without thanking their friend. Francesca, alone, a poor but neatly dressed girl, stood modestly apart, took the smallest loaf that was left in the basket, gracefully kissed the gentleman's hand, and went away in a quiet and becoming manner. On the following day, the children were equally ill-behaved; and Francesca, this time, received a loaf that was scarcely half the size of the others.

But when she got home, her sick mother cut the loaf; and there fell out of it a number of bright silver coins.

The mother was alarmed, and said: "Take back the money this instant; for no doubt it has got into the bread by some mistake." Francesca carried it back; but the benevolent gentleman declined to receive it. "No, no" said he, "it was no misstake. I had the money baked in the smallest loaf simply as a reward for you, my good child. Always continue thus contented, peaceable, and unassuming.

The person who prefers to remain contented with the smallest loaf, rather than quarrel for the largest one, will find throughout life, blessing in this course of action still more valuable than the money which was baked in your loaf of bread."—SEL.

What Makes a Man?

Most of the boys wish to be men. Some of them do not know how. Smoking and swearing do not make men, for boys can do such things, and very small boys, and very dirty boys, too. To be men, boys should grow, not only in body but in mind. A boy's mind does not work well in a man's body, and if a boy grows tall and strong, and remains ignorant and foolish, he makes a very poor specimen of a man. To be men boys should work, play and learn; and they should learn not only the things in book, but they should learn of the things that occur around them. They should learn also how to use their hands, their eyes, and how to use their tongues, and how to hold them. There are many persons who walk through the world and see but little of it; and some are quite well educated in books, but have never learned to use their eyes. Every star above us, and every plant beneath our feet has lesson, for us which children may well know.

If boys wish to be men they must also learn to rule their spirits and control their tempers and above all to fear the Lord. A man who does not know how to rule himself, but who when provoked and irritated would strike and kick like an ungoverned child, may easily become a brute and a murderer. A man needs to learn wisdom, righteousness, gentleness, honesty, faith and truth.—SEL.

A Queen's Opinion.

J. M. Queen writes from Johnston, W. Va., that he has been sorely afflicted for several years, but he was urged to try PE-RU-NA, which he did, and he now feels that he is about over his trouble, and considers it the greatest medicine in the world. He says he has to go or send a distance of fifteen miles to obtain PE-RU-NA, but it will repay him for this.

Ellwood Shallcross, former editor of the Saturday Journal, Wheeling, W. Va., says: "Gentlemen: Some time ago I was afflicted with a pain in my back in the region of the kidneys, and suffered considerably. Having read your advertisement, I went to Logan & Co., of this city, and purchased a bottle of PE-RU-NA, which I took, and it resulted in the complete removal of the pain. I think I can safely recommend it as a superior panacea for pains."

Mr. Aaron Shreffler, Alma, Marion county, Ill., writes: "DR. S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, O. Dear Sirs: Myself and wife have taken three bottles of your medicines and received much benefit by the use of them. My wife was troubled with neuralgia, headache and weak stomach. Her headache has not troubled her for the last two weeks, and her stomach is much better. She took only PE-RU-NA. I used both medicines, and my general health is so much improved that I feel like a new man. My stomach is very much better, and the MANALIN keeps my bowels all right. We intend to keep taking the medicines until we are permanently cured."

Evans T. Jones, Prospect, Marion Co., O., says: "After having taken medicine from different physicians of this place without any relief, I was induced to try your PE-RU-NA, which I purchased of Cook Bros., druggists, of this place, and after using some six bottles of the same, I feel very much benefited. Am sure it will finally work an entire cure."

T. J. Ewing, Cattletsburg, Ky., writes: "In the early part of last winter I contracted a severe cold, attended with a bad cough; then, being exposed during late flood, added to my disability. I have taken your PE-RU-NA with good results. My cough has entirely left, soreness is gone, and am increasing in flesh.

Thomas Bradford, 314 Western Avenue, Allegheny City, Pa., writes: "I have had liver complaint for three years; I thought I would have to quit work; I have taken two bottles of your PE-RU-NA, and am well."

S. Wolf & Son, Wilmot, Ohio, write: "We handle your goods, and they give good satisfaction."

PE-RU-NA is sold by all druggists. Price $1.00 per bottle, six bottles for $5.00. If you cannot get it of your druggist, we will send it on receipt of regular price. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, don't be persuaded to try something else, but order from us as directed. S. B. HARTMAN, & CO.,
